ABOUT 'MADNESS'

'Madness' is a series of short, immersive comics intended to communicate an experience with mental illness. There are many ways and forms of mental illness; these comics are only intended to illustrate one of them.

If you've never felt this way, that's okay.

If you have, we're very sorry.

There are warning signs,

usually,

but you can't

or won't heed them.

It doesn't take much.

Just one word.

One

more

thing

than you can handle.

One little push.

And suddenly...

Sanity is no longer the best option.

You may not even notice

something's wrong

at first.

In fact, you might feel better.

Everything's beautiful,

and nothing hurts.

Ignore anything strange.

It's just trying to confuse you.

You know you're not supposed to throw yourself in traffic,

but you can't

remember why?

Then your imaginary friend
shows up.

You haven't seen him
since you were 12.

He says you need to call your friend.

Right now.

It's very important.

You suspect he's trying to trick you,

but he's always been
trustworthy in the past,
so okay.
